

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A color filter having a colored portion placed in each of a plurality of areas on a substrate, wherein the plurality of areas each have a light reflecting areas in which light
5 entering the colored portion is reflected, and a light transmitting areas through which light entering the colored portion passes, and the light transmitting areas includes a recessed portions for adjusting an optical path length in the colored portion.